Twenty plus years, forty national parks, incredible scenery and endless sunsets. This is the true story of how I, along with my brother and others close to me, explored the Western United States over a roughly twenty year period. It is the story of us and a little trailer. It is the story of how we camped, hiked, ate, and drank. Warm personal stories are told. Many lessons are learned. Through it all I emerged as a different person. Ride along with me as I narrate these adventures. Laugh with me and cry with me. Experience, with me, the beauty that is the natural world. This is a travelogue of a different kind. Definitely not a children's book.
