Don't forget to visit Jemaa el-Fnaa square at dusk, as it transforms into a lively open-air circus, filled with acrobats, musicians, and mouth-watering street food stalls.

Marvelous Palaces and Gardens

Marrakesh is known for its opulent palaces and breathtaking gardens, each representing a different era in Moroccan history. The Bahia Palace, with its intricate mosaic work and serene courtyards, offers a glimpse into the lives of the city's former elite. Another must-visit palace is the El Badi Palace, which now stands as a magnificent ruin, showcasing the grandeur of the past.

Escape the hustle and bustle of the city by visiting the Majorelle Garden, a tranquil oasis packed with exotic plants and vibrant blue structures. This enchanting garden was owned by French painter Jacques Majorelle and later restored by fashion designer Yves Saint Laurent, now serving as a sanctuary of peace and beauty.

For a unique dining experience, don't miss the chance to dine in a traditional riad, where you can savor a delicious meal while soaking in the atmosphere of a beautifully restored Moroccan house.
