Early Beginnings: A Star in the Making

Seth Rudetsky's journey began in North Woodmere, New York, where he developed a love for music at a young age. Gifted with a remarkable talent for playing the piano, his passion for Broadway was ignited when he stumbled upon a cassette tape of the original cast recording of "Hair." From that moment on, Rudetsky knew that his destiny was intricately intertwined with the magic of musical theatre.

After honing his musical skills throughout his childhood and teenage years, Seth Rudetsky went on to study at Oberlin College, where he earned his Bachelor of Music degree.

The Broadway Years and Beyond

After graduating, Seth Rudetsky wasted no time in making a name for himself in the Broadway world. He embarked on a successful career as a music director, working on various productions like "Les Misérables," "Grease," and "Phantom of the Opera." His expert musicianship and keen understanding of the nuances of musical theatre gained him recognition and respect from his peers.

But Rudetsky's talents weren't confined to the stage alone. He also proved his acting skills in various productions, including his hilarious one-man show, "Rhapsody in Seth," which showcased his incredible ability to flawlessly impersonate some of Broadway's biggest stars.

In addition to his work on Broadway, Seth Rudetsky found success as a writer. His witty and insightful columns, articles, and blogs have graced the pages of esteemed publications like Playbill and The Huffington Post.

The Birth of the Double Digit Gang

If you've been wondering about the intriguing name "Double Digit Gang," let's clarify this mystery. In the world of Broadway, actors often receive applause from the audience for their performances in musical numbers. Is there anything better than playing a good game of baseball with your best friends? Richie (“Bear”) and Jerry (“the Duck”) don’t think so. The two meet on the first day of kindergarten and start a lifelong friendship based on their love of sports, action, and adventure. Bear and the Duck share their passion for sports with four other kindergartners: Dale, Tommy, Phillip, and Rickie. All four are granted nicknames of their own, and Bear, the Duck, Peaches, Froggy, Philly, and Rick go on to form the Double Digit Gang.

As the six grow up, they never let their differences get in the way of their friendship. Pranks, dares, jokes, nicknames, and, of course, games fill their days.

Author Bob Veltidi brings readers back to the summers of their youth, when the world was big with possibilities, and you just knew that this next swing would be a home run. But childhood, like all things, must come to an end, and bittersweet melancholy tinges the last days of the gang's youth. A tragic event will test their strong bonds of friendship when they have to say good-bye to one of their own.
