Love isn't safe. And whoever you love will hurt you. It's part of the human experience. No one is perfect... people make mistakes. The secret is to focus on what they do right and decide what quirks you can live with. Set wide the window. Let me drink the day. I always thought that when people said, "love is not selfish," they were fooling themselves. But now I'm guided by the principle that it's okay to put aside what you feel for the welfare of another—for someone else's happiness—as long as you don't compromise yourself. Now I think there is no greater proof of love than that. I wish Feelings had an On and Off button. That would make things easier for so many people. Because I know I have feelings for him, I know I'm fooling Myself by saying, "I'm falling in love with her," when the truth is that I'm Already in love. There's no turning back, even if admitting what I feel doesn't change anything. She doesn't feel the same way, so I have to swallow my Feelings and go on with my life as if nothing happened. "I have loved the stars too fondly to be fearful of the night."
