England is a magical place to visit. Grandma takes her only grand daughter to visit all of her favorite sites. It's exciting to ride the double-deck buses and venture all over London. Riding The Tube is fast and fun too. They ventured to see the Ravens at the Tower of London and it was exciting when they attend a play in the Globe Theater. Another day they rode the train out to Stonehenge - what a mystical place. Later, they took off their walking shoes and dressed up for High Tea. They felt positively royal. It was also royal fun when they watched the Changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace. Grandma teaches us that we all can travel even if we don't leave our house. In books and in our minds we can travel anywhere. Let's go together.
