1. If you have glass windows and doors in your kitchen you can place the kitchen island and the dining table towards them so, while eating or preparing the food, you can enjoy both the brightest spot in the room and the view!

Take a look at this BL single family house kitchen.

In this project the rectangular kitchen island, used for preparing the food, and the round dining table are the main features of the space, which is especially designed for the family and the pleasure to stay together. The round table, extendable and turning elliptical whenever there are guests, is highlighted by the suspended light. The dining room, south oriented, is the brightest area of the house and it has the most amazing view looking towards the historical city center. The terrace, located between the living and the dining room, becomes the natural extension of the kitchen, especially during spring and summer.
